ABSTRACT

By discussing the new progress and comments of the international financial crisis, this article can clearly and intuitively understand that the current global trend of the economy is developing rapidly. With this trend deepening, the world financial crisis is still not settled. It may be necessary to set off a big storm. At present, it seems to be calm and calm. In fact, the financial crisis is brewing in the low valley. When there is an opportunity, it will be "born out." Once the international financial crisis breaks out, there will be endless contradictions among capitalist countries. The contradiction between socialization and means of production.....) Fundamentally, this is the original accumulation for the next financial crisis. Based on this, this paper focuses on the new progress and comments of the international financial crisis to make thinking and exploration, and proposes relevant recommendations, and is willing to share with you.
